

NEW in PARKING: September 2011

An alert bulletin produced by the MG Lay Library and sponsored by Luxmoore Parking Consulting, a division of ARRB Group Ltd

NEW IN PRINT...

Improving travel efficiency by parking permits distribution and trading

X Zhang, H Yang, H-J Huang

Transportation Research, Part B-Methodological, 2011

Volume 45B, Number 7, pages 1018-1034

Discussion about managing parking demand via parking permit allocation and free trading of parking permits.

The economics of parking provision for the morning commute

Z Qian, F Xiao, HM Zhang

Transportation Research, Part A-Policy and Practice, 2011

Volume 45A, Number 9, pages 861-879

Economic analysis of how the provision of parking for commuters affects travel patterns and network performance in an urban area.

NEW ONLINE...

New $1.8 million park and ride facility to take cars off the road (Northern Territory Government Ministerial Media Statement, Australia)

The first park and ride facility in the Northern Territory will open shortly in Darwin.

Read more

Glut of inner-city spaces hampers traffic reform (The Advertiser, Australia)

The chief executive of South Australia's Department for Transport, Energy and Infrastructure comments on the oversupply of parking places in Adelaide's city centre.

Read more

Airports adopt high tech parking system (The Australian, Australia)

An overhead camera parking guidance system is being installed in car parks at two Australian airports.

Read more

IBM launches city parking analytics system (PC World, USA)

A system using remote sensors in parking places, designed to help cities ease parking congestion and collect more parking fees, has been launched.

Read more

Freight truck drivers can see safe parking on TV from tomorrow (Handy Shipping Guide.com, United Kingdom)

Truck drivers in Europe will be able to use a smartphone application to identify safe parking areas.

Read more

A new scheme is placing temporary gardens in parking spaces, creating mini-oases in overcrowded cities (The Australian, Australia)

Article on using vacant car spaces as temporary gardens in California.

Read more

Copies of articles listed in the 'IN PRINT' section of this bulletin may be obtained from the MG Lay Library at ARRB Group Ltd for a fee of $A22 including GST. Additional assistance is also available on a fee for service basis.

MG Lay Library, ARRB Group Ltd, 500 Burwood Highway, Vermont South, Victoria, 3133

Email info@arrb.com.au, Telephone: 03 9881 1561